In mathematics, a derivation is a function on an algebra which generalizes certain features of the derivative operator. Specifically, given an algebra  $A$  over a ring or a field  $K$ , a  $K$ -derivation is a  $K$ -linear map  $D : A \rightarrow A$  that satisfies Leibniz's law:  $D(ab) = D(a)b + aD(b)$ . More generally, if  $M$  is an  $A$ -bimodule, a  $K$ -linear map  $D : A \rightarrow M$  that satisfies the Leibniz law is also called a derivation.
