The lack of research to develop further a theory of evaluation is a glaring shortcoming for human resource development (HRD). In this paper, I argue that the four-level system of training evaluation is really a taxonomy of outcomes and is flawed as an evaluation model. Research is needed to develop a fully specified and researchable evaluation model.

Solution selling is a sales methodology. Rather than just promoting an existing product, the salesperson focuses on the customer's problems and addresses the issue with appropriate offerings (product and services). The problem resolution is what constitutes a "solution". Solution selling is usually used in sales situations where products are just one of the elements that lead to a solution.
