In Judaism, life is valued above almost all else. The Talmud notes that, since all mankind is descended from a single person, taking a life is like destroying an entire world while saving a life is like saving an entire world.. However, death is also not viewed as a tragedy, even when it occurs early in life or through unfortunate circumstances.

Because English adjectives are uninflected, it is more difficult to make nouns out of them. One can talk about certain abstract concepts like the True or the Good, but in most cases, at least "one," "thing," or something like "man," "woman," or "guy" is required to create a noun phrase: "He's an odd one."
