Waterbirth. Before we talk about the evidence on waterbirth, it's important for you to understand some standard terms. During water immersion in labor, a person gets into a tub or pool of warm water during the first stage of labor, before the baby is born. In a waterbirth, a person remains in the water during the pushing phase and actual birth of the baby (Nutter et al. 2014a).

Rf values are calculated by looking at the distance each component travels on the chromatography paper compared to the distance traveled by the solvent front. This ratio will be different for each component due to its unique chemical properties. When measuring the distance the component traveled, you should measure from the origin (where the middle of the spot originally was) and then to the ...
