Corporate finance for the pre-industrial world began to emerge in the Italian city-states and the low countries of Europe from the 15th century. Public markets for investment securities developed in the Dutch Republic during the 17th century. By the early 1800s, London acted as a center of corporate finance for companies around the world, which innovated new forms of lending and investment.

Nitrous oxide (N₂O) is estimated to contribute about 6% of the global warming effect due to greenhouse gases. N₂O is also predicted to be the single most important ozone-depleting emission in the twenty-first century. Great progress has been made in N₂O measurement, but there is a critical need for sensors that can be used to map the spatial variation of N₂O emissions over a wide area.
