Calculus. In general, "a" calculus is an abstract theory developed in a purely formal way. "The" calculus, more properly called analysis (or real analysis or, in older literature, infinitesimal analysis), is the branch of mathematics studying the rate of change of quantities (which can be interpreted as slopes of curves) and the length, area, and volume of objects.

"For me, there is a delineation in my professional work before and after working with Shadiin. She adeptly, kindly, unflinchingly facilitated me in developing deeper understanding of equity and ability to more clearly see the world around me, while also giving me tools to keep growing in my learning and efficacy for years to come.

Hot Summer Vegetables That Beat the Heat February 5, 2013 1:38 pm. By: Jessie Keith. Most Americans experienced one of the hottest summers on record last year, and die-hard summer vegetable gardeners were more intimately tuned into the heat — spending untold hours watering and nurturing crops through the worst of the weather.
